Sam Katz considers speech on tax hike

'Tricky scenario.'
Mayor laments
lack of opportunity for input on the
Manitoba budget

BERNICE PONTANILLA
bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

Mayor Sam Katz is mulling making an appearance at the Manitoba Legislature for the public hearing on the proposed PST hike.

"It's a tricky scenario, trying to figure out the timing of when everything is taking place, but that is something that, yes, I am considering," said Katz after Wednesday's executive policy committee meeting.

"There really is no opportunity to have input on the budget per se."

The NDP government announced in last month's budget that the provincial sales tax will jump to eight per cent from seven per cent as of July 1.

The government says the new money is needed to pay for schools, hospitals and flood-fighting projects.

But the Opposition Tories say the government should tighten its belt instead of raising major taxes for the second year in a row.

Under the province's balanced budget law, the government must hold a referendum before any increase to the sales tax. But the NDP introduced a bill last month that would eliminate the need for a referendum while raising the tax at the same time.

Manitoba is one of the few provinces with mandatory public hearings on all bills, and, as of last Thursday, more than 100 people already signed up to speak to the new legislation.

Katz said he believes other councillors will also want to speak during the hearings.

Asked by Metro what he plans on saying, Katz said, "You're going to have to be there. Could be four in the morning, but you're going to have to be there."

CRASH KILLS PASSENGER

Winnipeg police say speed and alcohol likely contributed to this single-vehicle crash on Arlington Street, which left a 45-year-old man dead early Wednesday. The 30-year-old female driver was listed in serious but stable condition later in the day. See the full story on page 3. SHANE GIBSON/METRO

Fatal crash. Car collides with tree on Arlington

A man is dead after a single-vehicle crash early Wednesday.

A neighbour, who lives in the home next to where the brown 2000 Jeep Cherokee slammed into a tree at the corner of Arlington Street and Polson Avenue around 1:50 a.m., told Metro she called 911 after waking up to the sound of glass smashing and then hearing moans from the female driver.

"I wouldn't want to see something like this again. I feel sorry for them that this has happened to them" said Debbie Culleton, who said the vehicle hit the tree hard enough to send a bolt through her window and parts of its headlights over her fence and into her backyard. "It's kind of hard to sleep after something like that."

Culleton said she and her boyfriend were the first on the scene, comforting the driver and her male passenger, who wasn't speaking and didn't seem conscious, until emergency crews arrived.

"He wasn't making any movements or anything like that," she said of the passenger. "It wasn't long before the ambulance arrived, they took him out and were doing CPR on him all the way to the ambulance."

Culleton said emergency crews had to use the jaws of life to remove the driver.

Police said two people were taken from the scene in critical condition. The 45-year-old male passenger died in hospital, while the female driver, 30, is in serious but stable condition. Police said speed and alcohol were factors in the crash.

Appeal to conflict-of-interest case amounts to 'stalling': Katz

bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

A day after restaurateur Joe Chan filed an appeal contesting the result of the recent conflict-of-interest case targeting the mayor, Sam Katz called the move a stalling tactic.

"No, this is just a technique of stalling, of having to pay what the judge has ordered to pay. To be very frank with you, I expected it," said Katz on Wednesday.

Chan, the owner of the Cathay House, told Metro Winnipeg last month that not only does he disagree with Justice Brenda Keyser's dismissal of the case on April 4, but he also felt the judge's awarding of $10,000 in legal costs is a deterrent to any other citizens wanting to launch a case under this same legislation.

"Now they shut the door (for someone) to come forward and that's not fair," Chan said

Appeal

"...They shut the door (for someone) to come forward and that's not fair."

Restaurateur Joe Chan

at the time. "I'm not going to disappoint the people that have supported me, so I'm going to appeal."

Keyser, a Court of Queen's Bench judge, dismissed the complaint that Katz violated a section of a provincial conflict of interest law when he hosted a $3,000 taxpayer-funded Christmas party in December of 2010 at his own restaurant.

While Katz emerged victorious, Keyser said that Katz "exhibited at best bad political and ethical behaviour" and it will be up to voters in the next civic election "to decide what weight to attribute to this behaviour."

Python found in apartment dumpster

Snakes On Some Trash.

Exotic reptile safely contained, but owner could face up to six months in jail if found

A slippery suspect

An investigation is underway to find the python's owner, who could face charges under the provincial Animal Care Act. The law carries a maximum penalty of a $10,000 fine and six months in jail.

Winnipeg police faced a slithery situation Tuesday night when a citizen came across a live python in a dumpster behind an apartment complex.

It's believed the person was putting their own garbage into the large bin when they heard a rustling sound, saw the snake and called police.

"A member of our K-9 unit did attend ... and he was able to safely contain the snake in a (smaller) recycling bin," Const. Jason Michalyshen said Wednesday.

The serpent turned out to be a ball python — smaller than most other types at just over a metre long and not venomous. But officials were still relieved it didn't slide out of the dumpster.

"We're glad that it didn't get out and a child didn't come across it on the streets," said Leland Gordon, chief operating officer of the city's animal services department. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic bylaw. Parking at new Bombers stadium a 'cash grab': Councillor

An amendment to Winnipeg's traffic bylaw that would discourage parking on residential streets at the Winnipeg Blue Bombers' new stadium got the backing of Mayor Sam Katz's executive policy committee on Wednesday.

But one councillor still sees the move as "a cash grab."

"My issue is: For the small amount of events and the moderate amount of inconvenience, we're setting up a very expensive, a very cumbersome and inconvenient parking policy in the neighbourhood surrounding the university," said Coun. Jeff Browaty.

The bylaw amendment would prohibit parking in the "Stadium Event Zone" from noon until 10 p.m. on dates when events are being held at Investors Group Field.

Residents will be allowed to register one vehicle with the Authority for street parking.

Katz said he disagrees this is a cash grab, adding the amendment has the support of local residents.

Katz said the issue comes down to basic economics.

"If the demand is there, they'll pay for it, if it's not there, then you'll see the price drop. It's really that simple," he said.

Canada-wide warrant. Police searching for youth suspected in gang shooting

In a rare move, Winnipeg police have obtained a court order authorizing the release of the name and picture of a seventeen-year-old male suspect wanted in connection to the shooting death of a man in a case of mistaken identity last month.

A Canada-wide warrant has been issued for Anthony McClements, 17, wanted in Winnipeg to face charges of 2nd degree murder and attempted murder after Nigel Dixon, 20, was shot along with a female friend while the two walked in broad daylight in the city's West End April 2.

Normally offenders under the age of 18 are not named in accordance with the Young Offender Act.

Both Dixon and his friend, an adult woman, were taken to hospital in critical condition, where Dixon later died. The woman survived the attack.

McClements is white, 5'9" tall, 150 lbs., with short or shaved blonde hair, facial acne, and blue eyes. He has a tattoo on his right forearm that reads, "Hustle to Live" and on his left forearm a tattoo that reads, "Live to Hustle".

Police believe McClements may have fled to Toronto, Calgary, Red Deer or Vancouver.

Cowbells bypass security crackdown

Investors Group Field. Blue Bombers switch to security wands at gates

SHANE GIBSON
shane.gibson@metronews.ca

The Winnipeg Blue Bombers are cracking down on security at their new stadium this season — but don't worry, cowbells can ring freely at Investors Group Field.

The team announced details of its new security policy for the new home of the Blue and Gold Wednesday, which includes the introduction of metal detecting security wands as the primary screening device and manual searches "should they be required," according to Bomber president and CEO, Garth Buchko. The new policy gives security at the stadium the authority to inspect fans and their bags upon entry, including the manual searches if they "come across anything they deem suspicious."

Bomber security manager Kelly Keith tells Metro other than the security wands, not much else will change as the Bombers kick-off the new season at Investors Group Field.

"We still allow collapsible umbrellas and collapsible strollers," he said, clarifying that a ban on musical instruments and air-horns does not include cowbells or vuvuzelas. "The ban is only on the great big mechanical loud (horns) that cause the people in front of you to go deaf."

Fans will be allowed to bring a one-litre or smaller empty bottle, which can be filled in the stadium. With the exception of a "single-serving snack," no outside food or beverages will be allowed, but fans with medical conditions such as diabetes can call the main office a day before the game to receive a special snack pass.

Prohibited items

- Outside alcohol, illegal drugs, weapons (or items deemed hazardous by security), incendiary devices (fireworks, smoke bombs etc.), or poles of any kind;
- Flasks, ice bags, ice chests, coolers or picnic baskets;
- Frisbees, playing balls, laser pointers, boom boxes, inline skates, roller-skates or skateboards;
- Musical instruments, air horns, powered megaphones, pets, obscene/indecent signs or clothing.

Growing. Winnipeg police to see six more officers, four more analysts

The Manitoba government put up funding Wednesday for another 20 police officers and cadets in Winnipeg — another step toward fulfilling a campaign promise to put more officers on the street.

Premier Greg Selinger said six of the new officers will focus on street patrols, while four will work as criminal analysts.

Ten cadets, who are lower-paid, will direct traffic, guard crime scenes and perform other duties to ease the load on officers.

"We want our neighbourhoods to know we're there with them if they're feeling unsafe, and the best way to be there with them is to have people that care and have the tools they need to provide safety," Selinger said.

The announcement is part of a 2011 NDP campaign promise to add 150 officers and cadets across the province before the next election. Last year, the province announced funds for 24 positions, mostly in Winnipeg.

Each position will cost $90,000, for a total of $900,000, said a spokesperson for the Province.

Despite the fact the government is less than halfway to its target, Selinger said the promise will be kept.

The penguins have touched down in Winnipeg.

On Wednesday, Assiniboine Park Zoo officials said the group of three African black-footed penguins arrived in the city Tuesday evening and were moved into their new seasonal exhibit, called the HUB Horizon Insurance Penguin Cove.

Winnipeggers will get the chance to see the new penguins starting this Friday at 11 a.m.

"The penguins are in good spirits and adapting well to their new surroundings," said Tim Sinclair-Smith, director of zoological operations, in a press release.

"This is the first time we've ever had penguins at the Assiniboine Park Zoo and we hope this will be a real hit with the public."

The penguins, which were brought in from the Georgia Aquarium, will be on display until Sept. 30.

Man charged in decade-long kidnapping, rape of women

Cleveland, Ohio.

No evidence his brothers were involved, police say

A Cleveland man arrested after three women missing for a decade were found alive at his run-down home was charged Wednesday with kidnapping and raping them. Prosecutors brought no charges against his brothers, saying there was no evidence they had any part in the crime.

Ariel Castro, 52, was charged with four counts of kidnapping — covering all three captives and the daughter born to one of them while she was held — and three counts of rape against the three women.

The former school bus driver owns the home where the women were rescued on Monday, after one of them broke through a screen door.

Police said that they were apparently bound with ropes and chains, and a city councilman briefed on the case, Brian Cummins, said they suffered miscarriages.

Deputy Police Chief Ed Tomba said the women could remember being outside only twice during their captivity.

And their first opportunity to escape didn't come until Monday, he said. The women were not kept in the same room but knew they were not alone, he said.

Earlier in the day, former captives Amanda Berry and Gina DeJesus were welcomed home by jubilant crowds of loved ones and neighbours with balloons and banners.

The third captive, Michelle Knight, 32, was reported in good condition at Metro Health Medical Center.

Neighbours said that Ariel Castro took part in the search for one of the missing women, helped pass out fliers, performed music at a fundraiser for her and attended a candlelight vigil, where he comforted her mother. As recently as 2005, Castro was accused of repeated acts of violence against his children's mother.

there was "never any danger to the public."

"All the material was there, but that doesn't mean it was a bomb," said Maloney.

Even if the device was not found to be an explosive, Maloney said there's still the potential to lay public mischief charges given the disruption to the public.

Arias convicted of first-degree murder in death of ex-boyfriend

Show is over, folks.

Trial gained worldwide attention due to soap-opera dramatics, with at least one court regular selling her spot for $200

Jodi Arias was convicted of first-degree murder Wednesday in the gruesome killing of her one-time boyfriend in Arizona after a four-month trial that captured headlines with lurid tales of sex, lies, religion and a salacious relationship that ended in a blood bath.

Arias fought back tears, and family members of the victim wept and hugged each other as the verdict was announced in the hushed, packed courtroom.

Outside, a huge crowd that had gathered on the courthouse steps screamed, whistled and cheered the news in a case that has attracted fans from across the country who travelled to Phoenix to be close to the proceedings. Some chanted

"USA, USA, USA!"

The jury took about 15 hours to reach its verdict after four months of testimony, including 18 days on the witness stand by the 32-year-old Arias, a small-town waitress. The jury will return to the courtroom Thursday to begin the next phase of the trial that could set the stage for her being sentenced to death.

Arias was charged with first-degree murder in the June 2008 death of Travis Alexander in his suburban Phoenix home. Authorities said she planned the attack in a jealous rage after being rejected by the victim while he pursued other women. Arias initially denied involvement then later blamed the killing on masked intruders. Two years after her arrest, she said it was self-defence.

The trial quickly snowballed into a made-for-the-tabloids drama, garnering daily coverage from cable news networks and spawning a virtual cottage industry for talk shows, legal experts and even Arias, who used her notoriety to sell artwork she made in jail.

Jurors deliberated for two full days before reaching a decision Wednesday morning.

The trial will move into a phase during which prosecutors will argue the killing was committed in an especially cruel, heinous and depraved manner. If the jury agrees, another phase will determine whether she should get the death penalty.

Alexander suffered nearly 30 knife wounds, was shot in the forehead and had his throat slit before Arias dragged him into his shower.

Berlusconi. Appeals court upholds conviction

Former Premier Silvio Berlusconi's tax fraud conviction and four-year prison sentence were upheld on the first appeal Wednesday in a case that could see him barred from public office for five years.

In Italy, defendants are legally considered innocent until all appeals are exhausted, and Berlusconi's lawyers are expected to appeal the case to the nation's highest Court of Cassation.

Still, the ruling, which comes just days before prosecutors wrap up closing arguments in his sensational sex-for-hire trial, raises the question of whether Berlusconi's days as a political force are numbered.

Although Berlusconi holds no governmental posts he remains influential. It was his decision to head the centre-right coalition that gave a boost to his forces in February's election, finishing a close second to the centre-left.

"My opinion is that a personality who had such a relevant role in Italy for 20 years — absolutely controversial, evidently, but relevant — cannot be eliminated by judicial means, but by political means," Stefano Folli, a political commentator said on La7 private TV.

The 5 Star Movement party is pressing to apply the judicial ban on public office immediately. Italian media reported that cheers went up in a party meeting when the verdict was announced.

Even if the sentence is confirmed, it is unlikely Berlusconi would serve time for the tax-fraud case because a furlough would likely be applied.

Colorado. Accused movie theatre shooter wants to change his plea

The trial of the former graduate student charged in the deadly Colorado movie theatre shootings will likely be delayed weeks or months because he wants to change his plea to not guilty by reason of insanity.

The judge in the case will hear arguments about the request Monday. If the judge accepts the plea, James Holmes would be sent to a mental hospital where doctors would determine whether he was sane at the time. If he's found to be insane, a jury still could find him guilty.

Holmes, 25, is charged with more than 160 counts of murder and attempted murder — 12 people were killed and 70 injured in the shootings. Prosecutors have said they will seek the death penalty.

Pastor in Rio suburb charged with raping six women

Police in Brazil say they've detained an Evangelical pastor accused of raping six women, including three minors.

Officer Marcio Mendonca Dugubras says Marcos Pereira of the Assembly of God of the Latter Days church was detained late Tuesday in the Rio de Janeiro suburb of Sao Joao de Meriti.

He says Pereira is suspected in six rapes.

Rio's O Globo newspaper reports that one of the alleged victims said she was raped by Pereira from the age of 14 to 22.

Phone calls to the church were not answered, but it posted a statement on its website saying it is "confident in the actions of God in the life of Marcos Pereira." It adds: "The Bible teaches that there is no evangelism without persecution."

Dutch gov't site under attack

The Dutch government said Wednesday its main website is being hacked, and also confirmed that a man suspected of participating in another major cyberattack on Swiss-British anti-spam watchdog group Spamhaus has been extradited from Spain to the Netherlands. Obesity. Coca-Cola to make diet drinks more widely available around the world

Coca-Cola says it will make lower-calorie options and clear calorie labelling more widely available around the world, intensifying a push against critics who say its drinks pack on the pounds.

The Atlanta-based company, which makes Sprite, Fanta and Minute Maid, already offers diet drinks in most markets. But there's no consistency in their availability, particularly in emerging markets such as China and India.

Coca-Cola also said Wednesday that it would support programs that encourage physical activity and no longer market to kids younger than 12. That policy is already in place for the U.S., but the company did not say in which countries it currently markets to children. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Small businesses cash in on reality-show stardom

There's no business like small business. Mix the high stakes of running a small business with a dash of family drama and throw in a camera crew and you get hit reality television shows such as Pawn Stars, Welcome to Sweetie Pie's and Duck Dynasty.

Turning small business owners into stars has become a winning formula for television producers, but some businesses featured in them are cashing in, too. Sales explode after just a few episodes air, transforming these nearly unknown small businesses into household names.

In addition to earning a salary from starring in the shows, some small business owners are benefiting financially from opening gift shops that sell souvenirs or getting involved in other ventures that spawn from their new-found fame.

Sales at Gold & Silver Pawn Shop in Las Vegas are five times higher than they were before Pawn Stars first aired in 2009. More people are pouring into the St. Louis restaurant featured in Welcome to Sweetie Pie's to eat its jumbo-sized fried chicken wings and six-cheese macaroni and cheese. And Duck Commander, seen in Duck Dynasty, is having trouble controlling the crowds in front of its headquarters in the small city of West Monroe, La.

"Sometimes it's hard getting from the truck to the front door," says Willie Robertson, who owns Duck Commander with his father and stars in the A&E series with his extended family.

It's a big change for a company that sells duck calls out of a part-brick, part-cinder block warehouse on a dry, dead-end country road. Duck hunters use the whistles, which mimic duck sounds, to attract their prey.

Since Duck Dynasty began airing in March 2012, Robert-

A DASH OF OPTIMISM FOR PARENTS

I don't know any bad parents.

I just realized this recently and it came as a total shock, similar to when I suddenly grasped, in a moment of clarity, that Murdock on The A-Team is Barclay on Star Trek: The Next Generation.

I know of bad parents, sure. I hear stories about friends of friends who approached parenting the same way some people approach marriage, as a chore they felt obliged to do, like dishes.

And the media is full of stories about parents who are too strict or too lax. Parents who ride their kids for good grades, or who could ride their kids to safety if necessary because their children are so fat.

Maybe the fact that the criticisms are all over the map should have tipped me off that bad parents are the outliers, not the trend.

My brother and sister-in-law have six kids (it's a church thing), each more well behaved and well adjusted than the last. The sort of kids that cause elderly people at restaurants to warily ask, "What's the secret?" as if my brother is raising aliens, or The Stepford Children.

I'm good friends with a nine-year-old named Dash, who is perhaps the best kid I know. Besides playing hockey and tennis as well as I do, he also plays instruments including piano and the mandolin better than I do (that is to say, he plays them at all). Recently we were hanging out and I asked him if he'd seen any good movies lately.

"Life of Pi was excellent," he said.

I blinked.

"Did you read the book?"

"Not yet," he said.

Then he lit up a cigar and we discussed stock options.

I made that last sentence up, but you get my point. And I can think of at least a half dozen kids that, if not quite so erudite as Dash, seem as bright and balanced as any adults I know — probably more so.

My little slice of life is hardly a scientific sample, but I suspect all the hand-wringing over the state of parenting is similar to worry about "today's youth." People are convinced each is getting worse every generation, when things are largely the same as previous generations and in some ways better.

We like the idea that there was a Golden Age of parenting and that things would be better if we could just get back to it somehow. They never show the scene on Father Knows Best where he lashes his son with a belt for getting home late, or tells his daughters that homosexuality is an abomination before God. Or if they do, it's only on the DVD extras.

I hope to raise a child some day, though before I get to the Miracle of Life I have to get to the Miracle of Having a Steady Girlfriend. When I finally get to deal with all the anxiety and exhaustion that comes with being a dad, it'll be nice to know I'll have some role models to live up to and lean on.

And if all the great parents I'm friends with can't help, maybe Dash can. He knows best.

And you thought your commute was bad

Few journeys to school are enjoyable, but for the kids of Zhangjiawan village in south China, they are terrifying. Students must scale a 60-metre cliff using unsecured wooden ladders, or, endure the alternative, which is a five-hour hike.

The local government has now promised to build concrete steps, which should make the trip a little easier.

The village is located on a remote mountain called The Gate of Heaven in China's Hunan province. The nearest town is 35 kilometres away, and to get there, residents have to endure 90 degree cliffs, seen here. METRO

"For generations, the villagers used this path to go into town to go to school. But now, some of the richer families rent an apartment in town so their child can go to school."

The population of Zhangjiawan has quickly declined below 100 from a previous level of 400. The village had originally been created hundreds of years ago as an escape from bandits, but the appeal of isolation seems to have diminished. The village is so self-sufficient that very few outsiders need to enter. The residents are able to generate income from the natural resources that surround the mountain by growing leaves used for sticky dumplings, bee keeping and hunting.

Other scary commutes

- Yungas Road (Bolivia). Around 300 travellers are killed each year on this road leading from La Paz to the Amazon.
- Lowari Pass (Pakistan). A busy trucking route 3,000 metres up that is vulnerable to avalanches and storms.
- Batlava Lake (Kosovo). Kids cross an ice lake to get to school.
- Hussaini Bridge (Pakistan). The Hussaini village is located on both sides of the Hunza River, and to get to the other side, villagers use a bridge made from wooden planks held together by twine. Floodwaters submerged it in 2010, but it has since been rebuilt.

RE: Stag And Doe? Don't Ask Me To Pay For Your Wedding, published May 7

I'm kind of guessing that you've never attended a proper Manitoba social. They're so ingrained into the culture of our province that usually one of the first questions asked of a newly engaged couple is, "When's your social?"

A big chunk of the costs for the social are usually put up by the couple themselves — the hall, the food, the booze — and they're the front runners on organizing social prizes and donations. What gets charged for beverages is nowhere near what you'd have to be paying at a bar. The only way you'd get cheaper booze is buying it yourself and drinking it in your backyard. Socials are also a great way to celebrate with people that you may not be inviting to your wedding. Some co-workers, acquaintances, family friends — people that you're friendly with but you don't know well enough to invite to the ceremony and reception.

Socials are crazy fun. You heckle the couple when they're pulling tickets for the prizes. You buy them drinks. Everyone (who's left) bounces around like a fool at the end of the night to Spirit of the West's Home for a Rest.

The Brains take their cues from classic B movies like Frankenstein and Nosferatu. HANDOUT

What would Vincent Price do?

The Brains. Band incorporates horror, spookiness and monsters into their act

BACKSTAGE PASS

Jared Story
winnipeg@metronews.ca

Unless you're acquainted with Tiger Army and Nekromantix, you're probably asking yourself "What's psychobilly?"

Psychobilly is a fusion of rockabilly and punk rock. Many psychobilly bands also incorporate horror/sci-fi imagery and The Brains is no exception.

"I like the violence, spookiness, monsters and satanic imagery. I love writing lyrics about that stuff and having that dark edge to the music," says Colin Irvine, 25, The Brains' stand-up bassist who goes by the stage name Colin The Dead.

"I like old B movies, like Frankenstein and Nosferatu. I love the old stuff where it's all grainy and sh—y looking. After we finish a song I ask myself 'Would Vincent Prince approve of this?'"

Irvine — born and raised in Winnipeg — was introduced to psychobilly at age 16 through Give 'Em The Boot, a series of compilation albums by Hellcat Records.

A bass guitarist, Irvine was especially attracted to psychobilly's incorporation of the stand-up bass and eventually made the switch.

"It was a difficult transition because the mechanics are very different," says Irvine, who joined The Brains four years ago.

"First off, you don't have frets anymore and the tension of the strings is different.

The strings are much longer and it takes time to figure out the hand techniques. Also, you tear your hands apart while building up your chops and calluses. It's just a lot of blood and frustration."

Irvine learned to play the instrument by listening and watching, attending shows by Selkirk rockabilly band The Farrell Bros., Montreal psychobilly group The Gutter Demons and even The Brains.

Listening to The Monster Within, the first thing you'll notice about Irvine is how freaking fast he plays.

"It's really difficult to play the stand-up bass fast because the strings vibrate at a lower tension so they don't snap back like a guitar string," Irvine says.

"Once you get up to a certain speed, you actually have to throw the string back towards its starting position so that you can pull it again. It takes a lot of practise to get quick, but f— is it fun."

The Brains play the Pyramid Cabaret on Friday.

Winnipeg surf punk band The Thrashers open. Advance tickets are available at Kustom Kulture and Into the Music. Showtime is 9:30 p.m.

Iggy's bubble just refuses to Pop

Ready To Die.

Determined, durable rocker's new album with The Stooges proves age is no obstacle to all involved

When Iggy & the Stooges broke up in 1974, almost no one who'd heard of the band had actually heard it.

More than 40 years later, Iggy Pop's band has a new album, Ready to Die, a place in the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame and growing reverence for its place in music history. It's one of rock's stranger success stories, but what do you expect when it comes to Iggy Pop and the proto-punk band everybody used to hate, but really loved?

"It's true. It's a funny arc with us," Pop said in a phone interview last week. "That is the way it is, actually, in all the various numerical yardsticks of all this crud — it's bigger than it was. We have the advantage that it was so tiny when we started. It was really, really tiny in numerical scope, but it's grown and all those old records still sell really nice and steadily, and they're heavily licensed. People get to hear them at sports events and on movies and in adverts."

When historians and critics sort through the band's legacy, Pop notes, they always point out the Stooges' initial commercial failure: "But I always felt I was never making them for a quick buck. I was always making them forever."

The Michigan-based Stooges broke up in 1974 after dropping a pair of influential albums, Fun House and Raw Power. The group with Mike Watt on bass reformed in 2003 and guitarist James Williamson rejoined the band in 2009 after guitarist-bassist Ron Asheton passed away.

The 66-year-old Pop spoke about getting better with age and the possibility of more Stooges in the 21st century:

What do you think accounts for the band's continuing growth in popularity?

It got more to the general public maybe somewhere in the mid-'90s. It just sort of got to be everybody was ready to go, "Oooh, OK." I think part of that is there were fewer and fewer people doing sort of quote-unquote rock 'n' roll.

Iggy Pop and Michigan outfit The Stooges just keep going and are now on their rock victory lap. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's become less and less available on a daily basis.

Your guitarist James Williamson returned to the band after a long break from music. Did he struggle to get back up to speed?

There are little nuances that I hear of things that he can do that he couldn't do a year ago or two years ago. That's interesting. Ultimately in a group of this vintage, there are certain things that you can't do quite as much of that you could do when you're in your 20s. If you've got soul and know how to marshal your intelligence, you can more than make up for that by the depth you can bring and the intelligent decisions you can make as a musician when you're in your 60s and I'd say that's kind of what he does.

The experts say your ability to pick things up slows down as you age. Do you agree?

No, that's a lot of cold s—. In fact, playing an instrument really well is almost a detriment to playing music if you want to play it for your own pleasure or play it as an author, as originator. ... If you read Bound for Glory by Woody Guthrie, the first chapter it starts out he's hobbing on a train, and he's using his guitar to shelter him from the rain, he's getting into fights with it.

It doesn't even have a guitar case. And everybody knows Woody Guthrie couldn't play but three chords. I guarantee you, you could start in your 50s and learn how to play guitar like Woody Guthrie really quickly. He pulled music out of his box. That's what it's about really, pulling music out of your box.

You had a reputation for high-energy shows during the first go-round with the Stooges. Is it more difficult to perform to that standard now?

My personal ability to project physical energy probably didn't peak until only about six years ago, seven years ago. It was in my mid to late 50s and that's because when I was younger I didn't work at it at all.

Do you think there will be more Stooges music down the road?

You know, that's a good question. By the time I got done with this one, I been in the mood like, "Oh, f—, am I glad that's over with. Let's get this thing out." But that's also the tension of a modern marketing plan. They start rattling my cage and hassling me like two months before the thing comes out. ... So right now I think there's a very good chance we could.

Humble Edgerton finds his inner cad

The Great Gatsby.

Director Baz Luhrmann gave actor used to good-guy parts the confidence to take on bad-boy Buchanan role

MATTHEW PRIGGE

Metro World News in New York

Joel Edgerton is in his underwear. His schedule is so packed he has to do one of his interviews while being fitted for a tuxedo, which he will wear to the Cannes screening of his new film, Baz Luhrmann's pricey 3D version of The Great Gatsby.

"One day he's going to see me without my pants on in a movie, if he hasn't already," Edgerton cracks. So while the Aussie actor — best known for his roles in Animal Kingdom, Warrior, and Zero Dark Thirty — is in various states of undress, we get to talking about his performance as Tom Buchanan, the most hissable richie of F. Scott Fitzgerald's tome.

You just saw the movie last night. What was that experience like?

It's hard to tell whether you like a movie when you see it for the first time, just because you're in it. You're judging your own performance most of the time. Or I do, anyway. Like, "Oh f—, he used that piece instead of the other piece." Or I think I did something too big or too small. It's all negative. It was great for a movie like Animal Kingdom, because once my character is killed (very early in the movie), then I could just enjoy the rest of the film. Like, "Thank God I was shot." My brother was in Zero Dark Thirty as well. We both came out with the same experience, saying, "That movie was awesome until we arrived."

Baz Luhrmann has a strong visual style. How is he with actors?

Baz makes you feel valued in the process. If he wanted to change anything on a given day, he'd go to each of our trailers for one-on-one meetings. Few other directors would do that. I'm sure it wasted a bit of time in the morning. Actors love working with him, and they told me Baz will make you look great. He'll make sure you come off well visually.

When you were first pitched a version of Gatsby with 3D and Baz's time warp style, what were your thoughts?

I didn't imagine words popping out of the screen and the rapid editing style. But I've seen his other movies. I didn't know why I expected anything more subdued. But so many things are being made in 3D, and the idea of a drama in 3D is really cool. And Baz is constantly drawing from the themes of tragic love, so for both his visual style and his thematic leanings, he's the perfect guy to make this story.

You play a lot of nice guys.

What was it like playing a cad like Tom?

I never thought I could be Tom Buchanan. When I was younger I thought I could do anything. I thought I could play a girl. Young actors are pretty stubborn about casting. Then when I got behind the camera to make our own movies and we went through casting processes, I realized not everyone can do what we needed. And I chilled on the idea of people who wouldn't cast me in certain roles. Baz put the fire back under me. I shouldn't have been Tom Buchanan. I'm not that guy. But his excitement in seeing that side of me got me to do it.

How do you play a character who's so often indefensible?

Tom is a pig. He's very arrogant and racist and selfish and misogynist and a philanderer. He's kind of honest about it as well. Tom was one of the first football players at Yale, and Yale football players were the first sports heroes for American kids. Everyone would have known about him. Now he's retired, he's got all the money in the world. I just imagined Tom was really bored, and unhappy. And then when Gatsby comes in and tries to take his wife away, it brings the sport back into his life. He may not love Daisy, and he'd rather just go around and have affairs. But if another man comes in to take your possessions, he's gonna fight. He's not used to losing.

The Great Gatsby not so great, critics say. ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

'Overwrought, asinine, exaggerated and boring': Ouch!

The reviews are trickling in for one of the most buzzed about movies of the year and they are far from "Great." Alas, it doesn't seem like reviewers are keen on Baz Luhrmann's The Great Gatsby, which opens this Friday.

One said it's as "boring as sitting through 8th period English" and another went as far as calling it "overwrought, asinine, exaggerated and boring ... about as romantic as a pet rock."

Even The New Yorker didn't let it down easy, saying that Luhrmann is "less a filmmaker than a music video director with endless resources and a stunning absence of taste."

Who cares? It's in 3D, has a soundtrack produced by Jay-Z and it looks like glitter threw up all over it! Give it to me now!

Madonna's still got it

Madonna will be honoured as 2012's top touring artist at the Billboard Music Awards. The 54-year-old's MDNA tour roped in $305 million at her 88 sold-out shows, with 2.2 million people attending.

Prince, Taylor Swift and Lil Wayne are set to perform at the May 19th ceremony with Nicki Minaj, Bruno Mars, Miguel, Justin Bieber, Pitbull, Christina Aguilera, Selena Gomez, Macklemore & Ryan Lewis, Chris Brown, Ed Sheeran, Akon, Ne-Yo, and David Guetta in attendance.

So, yeah, $305 million. We can cut out all of the "old" jokes we throw her way.

It looks like Britney Spears is heading to Las Vegas for a residency this fall, à la Celine Dion. And she talked to Shape about how she's gearing up for it.

"I'm doing 90 minutes of yoga twice a week in addition to a lot of cardio — hour-long sessions three times a week with my trainer, Tony Martinez," she tells Shape. "The [Vegas] performances won't be simple — they'll be a massive party from start to finish. And to pull this off, I have to be in top condition and running at full speed." (Translation: No more Cheetos.)

She also is apparently paid by Nutrisystem to shill their diet system in interviews. She tells Shape that she's on the program (that's the shake for breakfast and lunch and a "sensible" dinner for those of you keeping track at home).

I think what is remarkable about this cover isn't her toned body — or the amazing Photoshop job from the art director — but that she still rocks a belly button ring. And a very glittery one at that. What is this, 1996?

Rihanna was booed for turning up late at a concert in Boston, but the audience in New York cheered her on even though she didn't start on time the following night.

The most stylish movies of all time

Not since Carrie Bradshaw hauled her collection of Manolos onto the big screen has a film's wardrobe received as much hype as Daisy Buchanan's Prada-designed dresses and Jay Gatsby's Brooks Brothers suits have. So as The Great Gatsby finally hits theatres, we're revisiting our favourite fashion movies of all time — because the runways might give birth to the trends, but it's the movies that determine which ones will become iconic.

SARA CARLSSON
Metro World News

Grey Gardens

Grey Gardens is not so much a documentary about two recluses related to Jackie O as a 100-minute trend machine. Little Edie's head scarves, Big Edie's sorbet coloured house coats, the long furs, the wacky layering, the wild print-mixing: it's all in style right now. And these women — not Anna Wintour — created the look.

La Dolce Vita

The godmother of fashion cinema, Federico Fellini claimed that his inspiration for the film came from a Balenciaga dress.

Sex and the City

Inarguably the biggest of fashion films, it was as influential as the TV show, reinforcing our love of Manolo Blahnik and turning Vivienne Westwood into the new Vera Wang.

Rear Window

It's hard to overstate Alfred Hitchcock's influence on fashion. Alexander McQueen once famously built a collection around his movies. And you see hints of Grace Kelly's Edith Head-designed costumes in the earlier seasons of Mad Men. In Rear Window, Grace Kelly only wears five outfits, each one memorable and relentlessly copied.

Funny Face

"Take the picture!" Hubert de Givenchy and Audrey Hepburn sealed their relationship as one of the movie world's greatest duos with a single scene: Audrey running down a staircase in the Louvre, her red sash floating above her, mimicking Winged Victory. Givenchy created costumes for four of Hepburn's movies, all of which we were tempted to put on this list.

Mahogany

"I'm a winner baby!" This movie was an opportunity for Diana Ross to be her fabulous self, in one fabulous outfit after another. Our favourite is the suitably glitzy Cleopatra look above.

Bonnie and Clyde

Faye Dunaway's mid-length skirt suits, knit tops, berets and silk scarves are iconic, making this the second most referenced movie in fashion history.

Breakfast at Tiffany's

Coco Chanel is credited with creating the Little Black Dress, but Audrey Hepburn popularized it. The satin Givenchy sheath she wore as Holly Golightly was undisputedly the most famous LBD of all time.

The Royal Tenenbaums

Wes Anderson has a clear and unique style that reveals itself in everything, from his choice in typeface to his set design. The wardrobe is just an extension of this and yet it takes on a life of its own. Think Steve Zissou's red beanie or, more memorably, Margo Tenenbaum's Grey Gardens-y fur.

Art deco style all the rage

Earlier this year I predicted that the style of art deco would make a resurgence in home decorating. The look of art deco was invented in the early part of the 20th century, and incorporated modern lines, masculinity and luxurious finishes like polished dark wood, brushed gold metal tones and hits of black for opulence. As both traditional and modern, the look of deco helps to bridge something old with its clean, modern lines. This month The Great Gatsby movie is being released; a show stopper filmed in the art deco period with incredible fashions and home decor. I thought it would be suitable to feature a few home decor items that will help get the deco look in your own home.

DIY in your home: one room at a time

JULIA WEST
Metro World News

Pretend you're walking into your home for the first time.

Chances are, once you take that step back, you'll start to notice plenty of outdated decor that could stand to be freshened up, or a cluttered area that could be put to better use.

Rather than overwhelm yourself with a whole-house overhaul, start making small, easy changes, one room at a time. You won't spread yourself — or your wallet — too thin.

Bathroom

Make your bathroom swankier by displaying everyday items in glass. Use mason jars, sugar kegs or even old jam jars to hold your cotton swabs, cotton balls, and toothbrush.

If your linen closet is overflowing and perhaps a little musty, too, air out and display clean towels, rolled up, in a basket or recycled wooden crate. And if all else fails, it's shocking what a fresh shower curtain can do to shift the bathroom's style.

Kitchen

Even the best kitchens are sometimes lacking in countertop space. Free up some of that precious commodity by giving everything on the counter a new home.

Start with a wall-hanging spice rack, which you can build, buy or upcycle from old shelves.

If you have a bulky, cylindrical container on your countertop that holds large utensils, move it to the wall. Use a wall-mounted flower pot holder to keep your container off the counter.

Bedroom

Time to redo the core of this room: the bed. New sheets and a mountain of matching pillows are great, but if you want to get your hands dirty, try creating your own headboard.

It only takes a tiny bit of sewing skill to create a slipcover for your current headboard. With the wide choice of fabrics available, you can set the tone for the whole room.

If you're looking for something more rustic, see if you can dig up weathered wood. Paint and sand an old door or shutters to match the room's theme and mount it behind the bed frame.

Find your place in the sun

We step out of the condo and into radiant light. Blind. Reach into my bag. Sunglasses. Perfect. Old Market Square pulses with energy, and I can feel the bass in the pavement. People move slowly through the streets, swaying to the beat. I love this time of year. Let's grab that table on the patio and get comfortable. We're going to be here all night.

These burgers are extremely moist and flavourful due to the hoisin sauce.

Instead of beef, use ground chicken, veal or pork, or try a combination. Serve these on miniature hamburger buns and add some sautéed onions.

If you prefer, make four or five regular burgers instead of the minis.

Ingredients

- 1 lb extra-lean ground beef
- 1/4 cup dry bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup chopped green onion
- 3 tbsp chopped cilantro or parsley
- 4 tbsp hoisin sauce
- 2 tsp minced fresh garlic
- 1 tsp minced fresh ginger
- 1 egg
- 2 tbsp water
- 1 tsp sesame oil

Miniature Hoisin Garlic Burgers

This recipe serves five. Two mini burgers are 264 calories and contain 7 grams of fat. BRIAN MACDONALD, FROM ROSE REISMAN'S COMPLETE LIGHT KITCHEN (WHITECAP BOOKS)

1. Heat the barbecue to high and spray with cooking oil, or preheat the oven to 450 F.

2. Combine the beef, bread crumbs, green onion, cilantro or parsley, 2 tablespoons of the hoisin sauce, garlic, ginger and egg in a bowl. Mix thoroughly and form into 10 mini burgers.

3. Whisk the water, remaining 2 tablespoons hoisin sauce and sesame oil together in a small bowl.

4. Brush half of the sauce over the burgers.

5. Barbecue, or place on a rack on a baking sheet and bake for 10 to 15 minutes (until no longer pink in the center). Turn the patties once, halfway through, and brush with the remaining sauce. Serve on mini hamburger buns, if desired, and garnish with sautéed onions.

Making salty soup edible

Can salty soup be saved? The answer is yes. How easily? That depends. Start with the season, quantify in and advance to more time-consuming methods if needed.

Secret's in the grill to fabulous flank steak with pearl onions

1. In skillet combine water, vinegar, honey, tomato paste, and bay leaf. Add onions and bring to a simmer over medium-low heat. Cover and simmer 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Uncover skillet and increase heat to high. Boil until liquid starts to thicken and is reduced to 4 to 5 tablespoons, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat and stir in 1 1/2 teaspoons of the thyme, 1 teaspoon of the salt, and 1/2 teaspoon of the pepper. Sauce will continue to thicken as it cools. If necessary, add water, 1 tablespoon at a time, to thin the mixture.

2. Combine remaining 2 teaspoons thyme, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1/2 teaspoon pepper. Brush steak on both sides with oil and season evenly with spice mix, pressing spices into meat. Allow to stand at room temperature 30 minutes before grilling.

3. Prepare grill for direct cooking over medium heat (350 to 450 F). Grill the steak over direct medium heat, with the lid closed, until cooked to your desired doneness, 8 to 10 minutes for medium rare, turning once or twice. Remove from the grill and let rest for 3 to 5 minutes. Cut the steak across the grain into thin slices. Serve immediately with the onions and their sauce. Garnish with thyme, if using. NEWS CANADA/2013 WEBER-STEPHEN PRODUCTS LLC. RECIPE FROM WEBER'S NEW REAL GRILLING BY JAMIE PURVIANCE. Ingredients

- 3/4 cup water
- 1/2 cup balsamic vinegar
- 2 tbsp honey
- 1 1/2 tsp tomato paste
- 1 large bay leaf
- 1 package (14 oz) frozen pearl onions, thawed
- 3 1/2 tsp finely chopped fresh thyme leaves, divided
- 2 tsp kosher salt, divided
- 1 tsp freshly ground black pepper, divided
- 1 flank steak, about 1 1/2 lbs and 3/4 inch thick
- 1 tbsp extra-virgin olive oil
- fresh thyme sprigs (optional)

Starter. Prosciutto-Wrapped Pineapple

1. Prepare grill for direct cooking over high heat (450 to 550 F).

2. In blender combine paste ingredients. Process until a chunky paste forms, scraping down the sides of the bowl at least once.

3. Coat each pineapple spear with about 1 teaspoon of the paste, and then wrap each spear with two prosciutto slices. Grill the spears over direct high heat, with the lid closed, until the prosciutto is crisp on all sides, 8 to 10 minutes, turning occasionally. Serve. NEWS CANADA/ 2013 WEBER-STEPHEN PRODUCTS LLC. Heart-healthy activities

Is the woman in your life a champion at juggling work, kids, her partner and parents? Do you think she puts everyone's needs first and hers last?

Does she ensure everyone and everything is taken care of at any hour, despite not having enough hours in the day?

If your answer is "yes" to any of these questions it may also be true that she doesn't find time to pay attention to her own heart health.

"Most women don't know that heart disease and stroke is a leading cause of death for women in Canada," says Bobbe Wood, president of the Heart and Stroke Foundation, and founder of The Heart Truth awareness campaign.

"And moms are used to putting their families' needs ahead of their own. We encourage all women to take action and protect their heart health to make health last, so they can enjoy a long, full and vital life with time and energy for family, friends and personal pursuits."

This Mother's Day, families can make sure their moms put themselves first by planning a full day of heart-healthy and fun activities, like these:

- Start the day with a personalized message: Send a heartfelt message on a custom Mother's Day e-card, which shares how you are going to help mom make time for her heart — today and every day.

- Serve her breakfast in bed: Mouth-watering breakfast burritos cooked in two minutes and served piping hot in bed could be the perfect healthy start to her day.

- Join her for yoga: Yoga improves circulation, keeps blood pressure levels in check, lowers the heart rate, and improves oxygen supply to the body — a great combination to help achieve better heart health.

- Pamper her with a spa package: There is nothing like relaxing the mind and body to make her feel fitter and more energetic. And a stress-free mind and body is good for heart health.

- Treat her to a healthy family dinner: There are many heart healthy, delicious recipes to choose from, including lamb stew with mini potatoes, salmon BLT or just good old homemade macaroni and cheese.

- Encourage her to seek heart health information: Help your mother learn about prevention tips, warning signs and symptoms, and remind her to ask heart-health related questions of her doctor at her next checkup.

Survey. How much is your mom worth?

One of the most important jobs on the planet doesn't come with a paycheque, but Canadians have a salary in mind. According to a recent survey conducted by Leger Marketing on behalf of Walmart Canada, Canadians would pay their mom an average annual salary of $161,287 for all of her hard work.

The survey was commissioned in celebration of the second annual Walmart Mom of the Year Award, giving people across the country the opportunity to recognize the enormous contribution mothers make to their families and to their communities.

"We're thrilled to bring the mom of the year award back for a second year," said Emma Fox, chief marketing officer for Walmart Canada. "This award celebrates moms as both role models and integral members of the community, and gives Canadians an opportunity to say thank you for everything moms do every day."

Walmart's survey also asked Canadians who they thought embodied the quintessential TV mom; The Cosby Show's Clair Huxtable led the poll being named by one in five respondents (21 per cent). Marge Simpson of The Simpsons came in second at 17 per cent.

"Being a mom is really a labour of love and though music has always been a central part of my life, the day I became a mother was the day I became who I was meant to be," said Chantal Kreviazuk, Canadian singer, songwriter and pianist and a selection committee member.

"My journey into motherhood nine years ago renewed my sense of creativity, and strengthened my passion for giving back to the causes that are dear to my heart. These things, combined along with my commitment to my family, continue to help me in my effort to be the best version of me possible."

A selection committee of mom ambassadors comprised of three admired Canadian mothers, one Walmart Canada mom and last year's mom of the year will determine the recipient of the 2013 Award.

New this year is the My Finalist public voting, where Canadians will have the chance to review the top 20 candidates and vote for one mom they want to see become one of the eight finalists. Each finalist will receive $10,000 to spend on themselves and the remaining seven will receive $10,000 for the charity or cause of their choice. The Mom of the Year award recipient will receive $100,000 for the charity or cause of her choice.

The mom of the year finalists will be flown to Toronto for a day of pampering and an awards gala on Oct. 5. Nominations for the mom of the year award close June 16 and My Finalist public voting will run from July 4 through to Aug. 1.

Ideas for the new mom in your life

If someone you know has just had a baby, Mother's Day can provide the perfect opportunity to honour her. Here are some gift ideas born to please:

Food delivery service

New moms are overloaded with tasks and responsibilities — and, of course, they are sleep deprived. In between getting to know and care for their baby, new mothers have zero time to actually prepare a healthy meal for themselves. Why not get them a gift certificate from a local food delivery service?

Post-partum doula

Never heard of one? Post-partum doulas step in after the birth of the baby to help take care of mom and help out around the house.

Make memories

Ditch the flowers, forgo the diamonds and leave the breakfast in bed to the children. This is the year for gadgets. There are a ton of cameras available today that will capture every fleeting moment of motherhood. Most are child-friendly, which means that you can hand these to the kids and not worry about sand or dust.

Gifts that give back

Consider making a donation to her favourite charity. Your gift will help provide expectant moms and babies in some of the poorest regions in the world.

Charms that will make her smile

With gestures, gifts and cards, Mother's Day is a perfect opportunity to show our enduring appreciation for our wives, mothers, aunts, sisters and grandmothers. This may sound easy enough, but isn't it true that family life in the 21st century is a bit more complicated?

"We live in a time when the average family has more than one kind of mother figure to celebrate," says Janette Ewen, a style expert for leading jewelry brand, Pandora. "No two households are alike these days and, with that in mind, Pandora has created a series of family-inspired charms."

If you want to find just the right Mother's Day gift, or gifts, Ewen suggests the following ideas, which can cut your shopping time in half. More gift inspiration is available at pandora.net.

Mother: Make Mom's day with a hand-finished, sterling silver heart, engraved with the word "Mom" in eight different languages.

Mother from son: Be the prince of thoughtfulness — give her a blue enamel, heart-shaped double-dangle charm that says "Son" on the inside of one half, and "Mother" on the other half. Both hearts feature a textured sterling silver and oxidized design. This highly-requested charm joins last year's red enamel "Mother/Daughter" version.

Great women: In sterling silver and sparkling cubic zirconia, honour the bonds between your female family members with a dangle that says "Sweet Sister," "Loving Mother" or "Grandmother."

Go beyond just kicking the tires

Purchase process. You can never do too much when hunting for your perfect vehicle

Wheels/Drive

Despite how much they cost, vehicles are often impulse purchases. Many people visit showrooms just to kick tires, but fall for something they see. That can sometimes work out, but it's a better plan to research and find exactly the right car for your needs.

Ask friends and family for recommendations, including what they don't like about their vehicles. Don't think something is too minor to consider — that badly placed cupholder could be an issue on every commute.

The Internet is a great resource for car shopping. Manufacturers' websites (make sure you are on the Canadian versions) will contain specifications about each vehicle, along with photos, lists of standard features and options, and pricing.

When comparing vehicles, check to make sure they really are similar. On some entry-level vehicles, the base price might not include air conditioning. If it can be added, it might make the car more expensive than a competitor with standard air conditioning.

Reviews can help narrow your list of cars to test drive. Some are launches, where writers drive new vehicles for a few hours for initial impressions. Temper these with regular reviews, where the writer drives it daily for a week or more for a more rounded assessment.

Now that you have a few models in mind, it's time to test drive. Surprisingly, many people take a car out for just a quick trip around the block. You are going to be living with this vehicle for many years, so spend at least an hour or more, including time on the highway.

The car should drive smoothly on city streets and have enough passing power on the highway. Try parking it a few times to see how easily it manoeuvres. Make sure you are comfortable and that you can reach everything.

Something that bugs you on the test drive won't get better with time.

Research other factors, too. Check with your insurance company to see what you are going to pay for coverage. If you are tempted by flashy 19- or 20-inch wheels, find out what replacement tires cost. And if it comes down to choosing between models from different companies, how convenient is the dealership to home or work when you need servicing?

Depending on your budget, you can clean your vehicle yourself or have professionals do it for you. ISTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

Car care. Protect your investment

Wheels/Drive

That new car look lasts about as long as the next mud puddle or major coffee spill, and then it's all downhill as the wear and tear of daily use takes its toll on your new set of wheels.

However, there is a wide array of products and services geared to keeping your cherished buggy sparkling long after it has left the dealership.

Depending on your budget, you can do it yourself or have professionals do it for you.

The question you need to ask yourself is: Do you want to protect your investment and ensure its good resale value down the road?

"Nothing lasts forever," says Lawrence Bailey, owner of New Image Car Spa, an auto detailing shop that has been in business in the Yonge and Eglinton area for 19 years. "But if you have a good car and you keep it in nice shape, it will look better longer and, when the time comes to sell, it will be worth more."

Inside and out detailing packages range from $125 to $375 at New Image, which recommends getting the work done every six months.

For most people, the cost of professional detailing and paint protection is too high.

This is where the do-it-yourselfers thrive, buying hundreds of car cleaning products for everything from the dashboard to wheel rims.

Experts say your new car should be washed once a week if it's parked outside and once a month if kept in a garage. A lot also depends on how often it's driven and exposed to the elements, ranging from nature to road salt.

It's always wise to wash and wax your car in the shade because if it's too hot, the detergent will quickly dry in spots causing stains and the wax will bake on the surface. Use soap specifically designed for auto surfaces, rather than household cleaners, which may damage the finish.

Whether you use a garden hose or rinse with water from a bucket, it is always wise to do so gently, applying as little pressure as possible. And always start from the top of the vehicle, so the dirty water flows downward.

Before starting on the exterior it's a good idea to clean the interior first, because you don't want the inner dirt to mar the shiny clean exterior.

Vacuum the rugs, seats and all the nooks and crannies, and shake or wash the floor mats outside the car.

Leafs' best effort thwarted by Bruins

NHL playoffs. Krejci completes hat trick in overtime as Boston takes stranglehold of series

David Krejci scored his third goal of the night at 13:06 of overtime Wednesday to give the Boston Bruins a 4-3 win over the Toronto Maple Leafs and a commanding 3-1 lead in their playoff series.

Krejci beat James Reimer with a shot from the faceoff circle after coming down the left wing.

The Leafs now face a potentially decisive Game 5 on Friday in Boston, where history and the Bruins are against them.

The Bruins are 15-2 when leading a best-of-seven series 3-1. And Toronto is 2-12-1 in its last 15 games in Boston.

Goalies Tuukka Rask and Reimer were both busy in an end-to-end overtime, with Toronto's Matt Frattin hitting Rask's goalpost some six minutes in.

Joffrey Lupul, Cody Franson and Clarke MacArthur scored for Toronto.

Patrice Bergeron added a single for Boston, with captain Zdeno Chara collecting four assists.

Krejci now has five goals and five assists in the series, combining with linemates Milan Lucic (0-7) and Nathan Horton (3-3) for eight goals and 15 assists.

The Leafs used their speed to great effect and led 2-0 after the first period, only to see the Bruins fight back to take a 3-2 lead in the second before To-

Leafs goalie James Reimer and captain Dion Phaneuf fall to stop a shot by Bruins centre David Krejci on Wednesday night at Air Canada Centre. Krejci scored a hat trick, including the overtime winner, as Boston took a 3-1 lead in the first-round series with a 4-3 win. FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS ronto stopped the slide with a late goal of its own.

Tied 3-3, the game hung in the balance to open the third. It was a crucial period with the Leafs either pulling even in the series or going down 3-1.

Inside the Air Canada Centre, the chant of "Go Leafs Go" started before the anthems. Outside, blue-and-white fans came out early to party in the adjacent Maple Leaf Square.

Lupul gave them something to cheer about on the Leafs' first shot at 2:35. Lupul gave the puck to Phil Kessel who raced around the goal and then fed it back to Lupul, who had enough separation from the Boston defencemen to slap the puck past Rask for his third of the playoffs.

Laying it on the line

Game 4 was desperate high-stakes hockey with players putting their bodies on the line.

Fleury gets hook for pivotal Game 5

Pittsburgh Penguins coach Dan Bylsma insists he still believes in Marc-Andre Fleury, that the issues for the reeling Penguins go far beyond the struggles of their goaltender.

Still, that didn't stop Bylsma from making a switch he hopes will shift momentum in Pittsburgh's slightly bewildering first-round playoff series with the New York Islanders, tied 2-2.

Tomas Vokoun will get the start in net for the Penguins in Game 5 on Thursday after three straight shaky performances by Fleury.

Rangers rebound to get even with Caps

Dan Girardi and Derek Stepan scored third-period goals for the New York Rangers, who squandered a two-goal lead and then held on to get even in the best-of-seven playoff series with a 4-3 victory over the Washington Capitals on Wednesday night.

Girardi ripped a shot from above the left circle, off a feed from Derick Brassard, to give the Rangers the lead again with a power-play goal 59 seconds into the third.

The advantage was created by Jason Chimera's interference penalty at the end of the second.

Stepan made it 4-2 at 6:02, scoring into a wide-open net at the end of a give-and-go play in front with Carl Hagelin, who had a goal and two assists.

Game 5 will be back in Washington on Friday before the series returns to Madison Square Garden on Sunday. The home team has won all four games in the first-round Eastern Conference matchup.

Brad Richards and Hagelin staked the Rangers to a 2-0 lead, but goals by Mathieu Perreault and Troy Brouwer tied it for Washington in the second period. The Capitals closed within 4-3 on defenceman Karl Alzner's goal at 7:31 of the third.

Henrik Lundqvist, selected a Vezina Trophy finalist earlier Wednesday, made 27 saves. Braden Holtby stopped 30 shots for Washington.

Heat show pedigree in Game 2 vs. Bulls

NBA playoffs. After being stunned in Game 1, reigning champs re-establish dominance in Miami

So much for that notion of the Miami Heat being in trouble.

Sure, they've lost home-court advantage in these Eastern Conference semifinals. But an absolute domination of the Chicago Bulls on Wednesday night made the reigning NBA champions look like the clear-cut team to beat in this title race once again.

Ray Allen scored 21 points in only 19 minutes, LeBron James finished with 19 points and nine assists, and the Heat led by as many as 46 points on the way to a 115-78 victory on Wednesday night in Game 2 of their series, now knotted 1-1.

It was the largest margin of victory in Heat post-season history, topping a 35-point win over Orlando on April 24, 1997.

Joakim Noah and Taj Gibson were ejected in the fourth quarter for Chicago, and the league will almost certainly review some of the things said and done in a game that was close for the first 20 minutes before turning into an embarrassment for the Bulls and an embarrassment of riches for the Heat. The Bulls were called for six player technicals, the most by any team in a playoff game since

Boston had that many against Indiana in 2005.

The Heat had three technicals assessed, a season-high for them.

Norris Cole scored 18 points for Miami, which got 15 from Dwyane Wade and 13 from Chris Bosh. The Heat led 42-38 with 3:42 left in the first half, before going on an absurd 62-20 run.

Yes, 62-20.

It was that one-sided. Miami shot 60 per cent to Chicago's 36, out-rebounded the Bulls 41-28, and enjoyed a huge 28-7 edge in points off turnovers.

Grizz testing limits of Durant's greatness

Kevin Durant insists he can carry as much as Thunder coach Scott Brooks wants to heap onto his shoulders with Russell Westbrook injured and out for the rest of the playoffs.

The Memphis Grizzlies are testing that theory.

The Grizzlies were able to largely neutralize Durant's supporting cast in Game 2, pulling out a 99-93 win Tuesday night to tie the Western Conference semifinals at 1-1.

Durant nearly did it all for Oklahoma City. He led the team in scoring (36), rebounds (11) and assists (nine). What he couldn't do was finish off a superb performance after Memphis went ahead in the final two minutes. But instead of calling on his teammates to pitch in, Durant is demanding even more of himself.

"I always can do more," Durant said. "I've got to put my teammates in better positions to score. I turned the ball over some where I thought I could have made better passes, shot some shots I should have drove or should have got closer. But I always can be better."

MLB. Rays pound shaky Blue Jays with heavy bats, steady pitching

Matt Moore won his sixth straight decision to start the season, Evan Longoria drove in three runs, and the Tampa Bay Rays beat the Toronto Blue Jays 10-4 on Wednesday night.

Moore (6-0) overcame control issues, allowing two runs, six hits and four walks in five innings. The left-hander threw 104 pitches, including 56 strikes, during his seventh start of the year.

The Rays lost the first two games of the series, blowing a seven-run lead Monday and a three-run advantage Tuesday.

Struggling Blue Jays starter Ricky Romero (0-2) gave up three run-scoring singles and got just one out during his second outing this year.

After Edwin Encarnacion put the Blue Jays up 2-0 with a two-run homer, Tampa Bay took a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the first on bases-loaded singles by Longoria, James Loney and Luke Scott off Romero.

Tampa Bay went ahead 4-2 in the second on Ben Zobrist's RBI single. Longoria made it 6-2 on his two-run drive during the fourth. Johnson's homer came in a four-run sixth that extended the Tampa Bay lead to 10-2. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ricky Romero pitched just 1/3 of an inning before being pulled on Wednesday in St. Petersburg, Fla.

J.A. Happ

Less than 24 hours after he was hit on the head by a line drive and carted off the field, Toronto pitcher J.A. Happ was back at Tropicana Field on Wednesday.

- The 30-year-old said he had a skull fracture that doctors believe will heal on its own, as well as a sore right knee that he tweaked when he dropped to the ground.

Doc given good news, bad news

For Roy Halladay, arthroscopic surgery on his troublesome throwing shoulder became the best-case scenario when he had prepared himself for the worst — a career-ending injury that would force his retirement when he's far from ready.

Halladay will undergo a procedure in his right shoulder to repair a partially torn rotator cuff and remove a bone spur. He also has some fraying of the labrum.

"I think we did all the right things," Halladay said. "Now I feel I have something to grasp onto, something to move forward with. I don't feel as lost as before. I feel like there's some answers."

On the 15-day disabled list since Monday because of inflammation in his throwing shoulder, Halladay said he expects to have surgery next week to give himself the best chance of returning this season.

Ferguson to retire at season's end

During more than a quarter of a century in charge of Manchester United, Alex Ferguson has always found the way to win — and win again.

Scrappy, abrasive and always up for a fight, Ferguson turned the club into a global power and established himself as the most successful manager in British football history.

And now, the 71-year-old Scotsman is going out on a high. On his own terms.

With his 13th Premier League title already secured, Ferguson announced Wednesday that he is retiring at the end of the season.

"The decision to retire is one that I have thought a great deal about and one that I have not taken lightly," the Scotsman said. "It is the right time."

Ferguson's trophy collection also includes two Champions League titles, five FA Cups and four League Cups.
